

ALL PARAMETERS SET TO RETRO

„[...] Well, Magnat is an authority in the hi-fi world. To the audio engineers from Pulheim, one can assume with a clear conscience that they have internalized innovations as part of the company's DNA.“

„[...] With the Transpuls 800A, Magnat thus really consistently implements its own claim a flexible all-in-one system and knows how to impress further.“

„With the Transpuls 800A, the horns provide fantastic clarity in the highs. Such a crystal-clear resolution is quite remarkable for loudspeakers in this price range. Especially since horns are also more complicated and more expensive to manufacture than tweeters that do without. Acoustically, it was definitely worth it, and on top of that, it looks great.“

Conclusion:

“The Magnat Transpuls 800A duo is a respectable Power Pack. The title “the beast” is fitting, as the speakers have a lot more to offer than one might think at first glance. It's clear for whom the speakers are intended: Everyone who wants great sound and a pair of fancy speakers, but without a receiver or complicated cabling. The retro look with the removable grilles is extremely well done. The possibility to connect basically any media device from smart TVs to turntables is already great and almost a mission statement. For 799.00 euros, there is a package here that can be seen and was allowed to fulfill all demands on a HiFi system. And that without a receiver. Chapeau!“

Read the full review on www.lite-magazin.de.

